One of the best sources is the online community of Adobe's _Photoshop User_ magazine, as well as the downloadable magazine _Photoshop Magazine for Digital Photographers_ at www.cro.com. Who is Photoshop for? Everyone who takes and manipulates photographs can benefit from Photoshop. Although some photographers use Photoshop only to enhance their images, virtually every photographer needs to manipulate a photo to fix problems, improve aesthetics, or combine images into a single image. In addition, the increasing amount of data required to store and deliver digital photographs means that image editing becomes more and more important. Organizations such as Kodak, Fuji, and Kodak are having to enable the use of advanced editing techniques in more and more ways. Increasingly, consumers are asking that their images be manipulated before they are printed. As the Internet becomes more popular, consumers may have access to the images before they even see the product. Although digital cameras have revolutionized the taking of images, the longevity of the photographs is still compromised by exposure, temperature, and viewing conditions. Many cameras can easily shoot several hundred images that have to be manually edited or enhanced after the fact. Using Photoshop in the right ways Photoshop is a tool that can be put to a variety of uses. It's especially useful for the following: Converting images from one format to another. For example, a color negative photo is a poor quality format; it has a black background because the emulsion is backed up by photographic paper. JPEG is a common format for your images, and most Web browsers automatically display these images. Editing, erasing, or removing objects from a photo. Photoshop has many useful tools that enable you to select and edit objects in a photo easily and simply. Extracting areas from a photo. In addition to a selection tool, you also have some extraction tools available. Creating special effects. You can make your own special effects by adding transparent layers to the background. Filling in areas. With many image editing products, you can add layers to fill in areas. Adjusting the look of an image. Layers enable you to re-do an image to look different with ease. Cropping an image. Cropping, or cutting out, areas of an image is an easy way to make sure you only use

Addressing the health concerns of the medically vulnerable during the COVID-19 pandemic: the Chinese experience. In this paper, we first give a brief overview of the major initiatives taken by the Chinese government to cope with the threat of the COVID-19 outbreak. Second, we provide a description of how an innovative urban model of care called 'Medical Treatment in the Era of the COVID-19 Outbreak' (MEDIC) was put into practice at Beijing, as the first large-scale model of care to involve the general public and the government in the management of COVID-19 patients with medical vulnerabilities. The MEDIC model included the creation of a network of collaborative 'medical care institutions' (MCIs), and the open mobilization of a network of 'at risk' patients and their families to identify patients with medical vulnerabilities. The largest MCI in Beijing was located within the campus of the capital's Sports Center. This MCI has a population of over 25,000 individuals, and houses over 3,000 patients with medical vulnerabilities. The MCI is augmented by two other MCIs, with populations of around 3,000 and 2,000 patients, respectively. These MCIs provide comprehensive medical care for over 10,000 vulnerable patients. Lastly, we will present the results of a survey of the older patients and their families in China that is being carried out in order to identify the specific types of vulnerability that older persons and their families need to address during the period of the COVID-19 pandemic.

Q: How to prove that $[a(b-1)]^2 - [a(b-a)]^2 = 4a(a+b)(a^2+ab+b^2) - a^2b^2$? For a fixed natural number n , $[a(b-1)]^2 - [a(b-a)]^2 = (4a(a+b)(a^2+ab+b^2) - a^2b^2)$ where $a, b \in \mathbb{N}$. How to prove it? A: it is not very elegant but you can split the whole thing into a product and do it by working out the individual values:
$$4 \prod_{i=0}^{a-1} (a+b-i) = 4 \sum$$
